RULES OF THE GRIFFIN POETRY PRIZE

1. THE GRIFFIN POETRY PRIZE

- a. The Griffin Poetry Prize, valued at $130,000, is awarded annually in two categories – International and Canadian. Each prize is worth C$65,000.
- b. A six-week Affiliated Fellowship with the Civitella Ranieri Foundation in Perugia, Italy, is offered in addition to the prize monies to the Canadian winner.
- c. In each category, the prize is for the best collection of poetry, in English, published during the preceding year. One prize goes to a living Canadian poet or translator, the other to a living poet or translator from any country, which may include Canada.
- d. Translations are assessed for their quality as poetry in English; the focus is on the achievement of the translator.
- e. Should a prize-winning book be a translation from a living poet, the prize is awarded 60% to the translator, and 40% to the original poet. If the original poet is dead, but his/her work is within copyright, 40% of the prize is given to the original poet's estate. Otherwise, the disbursement of that portion of the prize is left to the discretion of the judges.

2. THE TRUSTEES

- a. The trustees of The Griffin Trust For Excellence in Poetry are:
Mark Doty
Carolyn Forché
Scott Griffin
Sarah Howe
Paul Muldoon
Karen Solie
Aleš Šteger
Ian Williams
- b. Trustees may not participate in judging in any way.
- c. No trustee may participate in the selection of judges if he or she has a financial interest in a publishing house that issues contemporary poetry.*

* In May 2002, Scott Griffin purchased House of Anansi Press, a Canadian literary publisher. To preserve the integrity of the Griffin Poetry Prize, Scott Griffin no longer takes part in the selection of judges and is also prohibited from any involvement in the judging process. With these safeguards in place, House of Anansi titles are deemed to be eligible for the Griffin Poetry Prize.

3. THE JUDGES

- a. The trustees will select qualified judges of stature annually.
- b. Judges may not be on salary at a publishing house that issues contemporary poetry.
- c. The judges will compile a shortlist of seven outstanding books of poetry, four international, and three Canadian.
- d. From the shortlist, the judges will select the final winners in the international and Canadian categories. Shortlisted Canadian books are eligible for both prizes.
- e. The judges have absolute discretion in interpreting the rules, and their decision is final.
- f. All decisions of the judges will be unanimous.

4. ELIGIBILITY CRITERIA

- a. Submissions must come from publishers, who may enter an unlimited number of titles.
- b. To be eligible for the international prize, a book of poetry must be a first-edition collection (i.e., not previously published in any country), written in English, or translated into English, by a poet/translator from any part of the world, including Canada.

- d. Books must have been published in English during the calendar year preceding the year of the award.
- e. Winning the Griffin Poetry Prize (or any other prize) in previous years does not render a poet ineligible for the current year's prize.

- g. Books must be the work of one poet.
- h. Selected and Collected volumes are only eligible as translations into English.

5. CONDITIONS OF THE PRIZE

- a. A book which is entered for the Griffin Poetry Prize will not qualify for the award unless the publisher agrees:
